March 2017

Celtic Session and Song Circle

Sat. March 11, 7:30, at the 602 Club

It's March, the month when everyone can be Irish and kick up your heels (or just tap your toes) to the jigs and reels or sing-a-long to the rousing pub songs and ballads.

On March 11 we'll meet at the 602 Club for an evening of Irish music hosted by Shillelagh (Jim Anger, Pat Schwenke, and Caelan Anger), Peter Bartman, and members of Druid's Table.

All Green Apple members are invited - bring voices, instruments, requests, or just come to listen.

Admission is free and the music starts at 7:30, 602 N. Lawe St., Appleton.

Coming Up in April: A Green Apple Mini Concert

On April 22, 2017, Green Apple will present a special concert featuring some of the best musicians among our members. Three groups or individual performers will bring you a variety of styles and types of acoustic music in an evening that should not be missed. The performance will take place at the 602 Club on Lawe St. in Appleton at 7:30 p.m. We look forward to seeing you there. (602 N. Lawe St.)

Looking back:

A Successful Song Circle at the 602 Club

Our January song circle event was the first gathering at the cozy 602 Club, a new Appleton venue that we'll use again in March and April. Thanks to board members Peter Bartman and Debbie Wagner for setting up and hosting. So what justifies calling this event a success? Certainly not huge numbers. There were 15 in the circle and space enough for only a few more listeners. But every person in the circle contributed, and the variety of songs, styles, and instruments was pleasing. In addition to the usual guitars, there were mandolins, fiddle, whistle, concertina, and, best of all, voices. Peter, Bruce, Bonny, Jim, Ted, and Marie all sang a capella.

There were two children playing, who had to have noticed that this group of adults was having a lot of fun with just voices and acoustic instruments. Maybe some day, they will want to be a part of a folk music society.
